I Must Say Sorry

I am very upset. I can't sleep. Writing in my diary may help. Today I slapped Raman in the afternoon which made him cry. Since then he hasn't talked to me.

Today is the first time in five years that I have hit my younger brother. It hasn't been a good day for me. In the morning I couldn't find my pen and went to school without one. I made many mistakes in my sums. My teacher scolded me. Then I didn't get a 'good' in drawing — my favourite subject. But the worst was the games class. I had kicked the ball high and it hurt Mukul. "Rahul you naughty boy !" shouted Mr. Gill and punished me.

The moment I came home, Raman came running home. "Rahul, I've found your pen. Now can I play with your blue aeroplane ?" he said. But I was so upset, that I slapped him. Poor Raman.

It is my fault. I must say sorry to Raman. How ? Should I buy him a chocolate or give him the blue aeroplane ? Or give him both ? Both, I think.

Answer the following questions based on the above passage : $3 \times 1 = 3$

- (a) Why is Rahul feeling sorry ?
- (b) Why was his Maths teacher angry ?
- (c) How does the elder brother decide to say sorry to Raman ?
5. Read the passage and fill in the following table :

Japan

In Japan the whole year is a time of fun and festivals for the children. In the spring the countryside and the hills are full of small streams. The young boys love fishing in them. Summer brings many festivals. One festival is 'Tanahata'. On this day children decorate bamboo branches with coloured papers and pray for a good handwriting. Autumn brings the festival of thanks giving for good crops. People make small shrines called 'Mikoshi' and take them in a procession through the streets. Children enjoy carrying the shrines turn by turn. They believe that this would bring good luck to homes and shops. In Northern Japan, where there is snow all round in winter, the Japanese celebrate the festival of 'Kamakura'. They make snow huts. Children invite their friends and offer them oranges and glasses of warm sweet rice wine.

Fill in this table based on the above passage :

$$6 \times \frac{1}{2} = 3$$

Season	Festival	How they celebrate
Summer
