It is a fashion nowadays to bemoan poverty as an evil and to pity the young man who is not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. But I heavily subscribe to the doctrine that the richest heritage a young man can be born to is poverty. I make no idle prediction when I say that it is that class from whom the good and the great will spring. It is not from the millionaires or nobles that the world receives its teachers, martyrs, inventors or poets, but from the cottages of the poor that all these spring. We can scarcely read one among the few immortal names that were not born to die or who have rendered exceptional services to our race, who had not the advantage of being cradled, nursed and reared in the stimulating school of poverty.

Questions :

a) What fashion the author is speaking about in the passage ?
